  - The 71st Highlander Reenactment unit is a living history unit that portrays a Scottish unit that was raised in Scotland and sent over to fight in the American Revolution. We travel around in the Southeast to any event that we are invited to. Most of the events are an all weekend event and the equipment and supplies are paid for out of our own pockets. My role is to play the bagpipes and represent the pipers that played for our unit during the American Revolution. This hobby can give me and inside of what soldiers went through from the English perspective.
